

Fairy Garden

Be enchanted by our magical fairy garden! Children of all ages are excited by the idea of magic and fairies, so creating a small garden of their own is an opportunity to explore the world of fairies and learn to love gardening.

Fairy gardens only need a small space or a few fun containers to hold some fairy-sized plants. Fairies need places to hide from human eyes, so include a house, rocks and some shrubby plants. They also like shiny things and a bit of water. Small wind chimes will draw fairies with their music.

How many fairies can you find hiding in this garden? Use your eyes only—stepping in the beds will bring bad luck!

Did you know?

According to Celtic lore, if you provide fairies with a home and leave it in a secluded area of your garden or the woods, they might thank you by bringing you good luck and happiness. Many flowers are tied to fairy lore, but foxglove may be one of the most famous. The name foxglove came from a story that says fairies give the flowers to foxes to wear on their feet so they can sneak into the chicken coops undetected. Those fairies are always getting into mischief!

Find helpful Fairy Garden information at GBBG.org/Herbs

An arrangement of pots is all you need to create your own miniature garden

A mischievous fairy and her fox friend